Dedication

To Mrs. Freda Willson, who has encouraged the students of our school to excel in Mathematics, sports, and activities, the Class of 1968 dedicates this yearbook.

Mrs. Willson graduated from Morning Sun High School in 1923. Continuing her education she graduated from Coe College on June 8, 1927 with a Bachelor of Science in Mathematics.

After teaching in Yarmouth from 1944-1946 she came to Morning Sun. She taught Mathematics at Morning Sun from 1946-1968. For a while during the Second World War she taught Business Courses.

The Class of 1968 wishes to express thanks and appreciation of Mrs. Willson's fairness in grades, humor in awkward situations, and for being an outstanding educator.

Senior Class History

The senior class of 1968 started their book chasing in the fall of 1955. All toll, there were 38 of us in kindergarten under the sponsorship of Mrs. Rabendeaux. We were split in half with 19 country children and 19 town children. The country kids went to school in the morning. They included Janice Cunningham, Donna Stapp, Christie Wolfe, Annice Hamilton, Sharon Mabeus, Janie McElhinney, Jim Biggerstaff, Bob Boline, Robbie Boysen, John Corey, Don Crabill, Tim Elliott, Dan Inghram, Dennis McDonald, Steven Mesecher, Danny Pogemiller, Danny Sands, John Thomas, and Jim Hostetter. The town kids went in the afternoon. They included: Janice McElroy, Marilyn McKeown, Becky Evans, Shirley Wilson, Becky Kimble, Kathie Beck, Terry Graig, Connie Baxter, Trudi Dean, Peggy Gimer, Jamie Griffith, Carol Brown, Richard Bryant, Dennis Hartman, Eddie Wright, Bill Ivins, Mike Buster, Craig Johnston, Kenneth Hobbs, Larry Tisor, Dennis Crow, Jim Brown, Gary Ruble, and Donnie Dill.

In the first grade, under the leadership of Mrs. Beck, we lost 5 members of our class. They were Peggy Gimer, Carol Brown, Janice Cunningham, Don Crabill, and Steven Mesecher. This lowered our number to 33 members.

In second grade, we took on the leadership of Mrs. DeYarman. That year we lost 4 members and gained 2. We lost Terry Craig, Donna Stapp, Gary Ruble, and Bob Boline. We gained Marlene Mowery, and Steven Goodnow. At the end of the year we had 31 members.

Mrs. Hetherington took hold of the reins in third grade. That year we lost 4 and gained 3. This made an even 30 in our class then. We lost Dennis Hartman, Craig Johnston, Tim Elliott, and Danny Pogemiller. We gained Manny Calvin, David Calvin, and Randy McKee.

Then Miss Brown took the lead rope in the fourth grade. That year we lost Jim Brown, Steven Goodnow, and Janice McElroy. Moose didn't like that very well. We gained Virginia Inness and Ray Lowe. That made our class total 29.

In the fifth grade, Mrs. Caldwell lassoed us. That year we lost Marlene Mowery, Virginia Inness, and Kenny Hobbs. We gained Carol Brown, Barbara Hoffman, and Ada Lambert. In the sixth grade we had moved from the grade school to the high school building. The boys were leading the pack with 19 accounted for, and the girls were bringing up the rear with a mighty 14. In the sixth grade, under the spanking hand of Mrs. McElhinney, is where the action began. Eddie Wright always told she had a wicked paddle. It seemed like Eddie was always going outside for a moment. Anyway, we lost Barbara Hoffman and Ray Lowe. Terry Parkhurst became a member of our great class that year, and has never regretted it since.

Seventh grade came and we were in Junior High. Boy, what a way to live! We were always having a big free-for-all with the eighth grade. We got to play Junior High Basketball that year and man--what an experience. We lost Larry Tisor and gained Frank Hayes and Kenny Staggers.

Then we moved on to the eighth grade. We were the king of the Jr. -Hi. We ruled the roost. That year we lost Manny and David Calvin, Frank Hayes, Kenny Staggers, and Carol Brown. We didn't gain anyone so we finished our Junior High years with 29 members accounted for.

Then the work began as we entered the freshman class of High School. The doors were locked, no more recess. Boy, what worse torture could you give a person? We finally got used to the idea and buckled down to our books. At least that's what we did when we weren't getting knocked around by the upper classmen. We lost Robbie Boysen, but gained Barbara Hoffman, Betty Boline, Vicki Calvin, Linda Ruble, Adell Aynes, and Dwight Byerly.

Then we advanced as sophomores. They aren't supposed to do much so we were just there. We still got pushed around a lot but that's just part of growing up. We lost Janie McElhinney and Barbara Hoffman and gained Earl Reger.

The next year we were Juniors. That's the year you're almost to the top and you get to start pushing the underclassmen around. We had to have a Junior-Senior Prom, too. Boy-did it ever scare us when it came Friday, the day of the Prom, and we had just started working. We got done about 5:30 P.M. and the banquet was to start at 6:30. When we all got cleaned up and back to the banquet, we didn't even look like the same people. Well, we all thought it was a lot of fun until it came to cleaning it up. Well, enough said. Back to the statistics. Beginning that year we lost Earl Reger, but we added Ruth Strawhacker to the ranks so it evened out at 33 at the end of the Junior year.

Then came the fourth and final year of our high school career. We were the king of the hill once more. We did everything that was ever asked of us. We didn't even know what the word SENIORITIS meant. Due to circumstances beyond our control, we lost Connie Baxter, Annice Hamilton, Betty Boline and Vicki Calvin. We didn't gain any so we were going to, we hoped, end the year with 29 accounted for. We hoped, because there seemed to be more homework and less time. But after it's all over, we'll miss school in one way or another. Altogether, 23, of us made it all the way from kindergarten to seniors as a group. The best of luck to the underclassmen and someday you'll see how good we were to you.

Class Prophecy

I'm the sufferer of an unusual affliction,
That leaves me with the power of prediction.
It's not to my benefit -- not in the slightest,
To be a victim of "Senioritis".

A week ago I suffered an attack.
My whole world went entirely black.
When I awoke I was at our school.
But everything was changed -- I felt like a fool.

On entering the school I was not a bit phased,
But looking at a calender I was really amazed.
The year 2000 now was the date,
"Senioritis" had taken me ahead of '68.

Being naturally "nosey" -- and quite curious,
I climbed the stairs -- fast and furious.
The first class I noticed was very busy,
Looking at the teacher I became dizzy.

Working an experiment, there she sat,
It must not have went well -- she made a face like a rat.
Her face was familiar -- I knew it well,
There teaching science was Becky Kimble.

Now to the next room -- it was Math.
Who was the teacher? -- old Jim Biggerstaff.
I knew Jim would do something along this line,
'cause he'd worked with a lot of figures in his time.

Entering the Home Ec. room -- I got quite a shock,
Instead of cooking they were studying a rock.
I asked "but why" -- this took courage to muster,
The answer was plain -- they were taught by Mike Buster.

Up the stairs through the door,
I was anxious to see much more.
The building itself hadn't changed any,
But the personnel had really changed plenty.

In teaching business one has to be short and stalky,
Another qualification is to be rather -- talky.
So going into the business room it was no surprise,
To see short little Trudi batting her eyes.

Shirley Wilson was always among,
One of those noted for speaking in tongues.
So Spanish she led like a brilliant flame,
That is dear friends the days she came.

Adjective, gerund, pronoun, verb,
Ada Lambert's the new English teacher I over heard.
They told me she'd replaced a girl who's hair was misty,
The girl had got married -- her name was Christie.

If it seems I've left the coaches rooms bare,
It's not that I'm bias or being unfair.
But Morning Sun coaches sort of always roamed loose,
Such was the case with Don, Dan, and Moose.

I was so hungry when the noon bell came,
I ran with the kids -- lunch time was the same.
Down in the lunchroom -- looking ready to bomb us,
Was that lunch punching principal John Charles Thomas.

On the menu was a gourmet delight,
That wonderful soup with the peas split just right.
The orange juice was mixed with the utmost pains,
By the two great cooks Miss Evans and Miss Aynes.

Glancing at the teachers table I noticed a small crowd,
In the middle was Terry Parkhurst looking very proud.
He was the Shop teacher, to me he looked older,
He was showing the other teachers his unusual belt holder.

As I finished lunch, in came a man,
With a scrub brush, a mop, a pail, and a pan.
Oh, I remembered that man -- a party he could liven,
But now he was the janitor -- poor Bill Ivin.

Now upstairs I decided to go,
To see who was seeming to run this show.
I went to the office, with a sense of fear,
Because I knew the honorable leader was near.

For many years it seemed to me,
That the school secretary always had beauty.
Such was the case -- it still was the truth,
For there as the secretary, was pretty little Ruth.

The superintendent I begged her to see,
Ruth told me they called him Mr. B.
"Was he still here?" -- bold yet reliant.
The characteristics were the same but now it was Rich Bryant.

After talking awhile I asked Mr. B.,
Who could the school board possibly be.
He told me the school board was sort of a lemon,
Because it was composed of 50% women.

Sharon, Linda, Marilyn were three
Then Dennis Crow and Randy McKee.
A word about the president -- in a way he was a lamb,
Because after 32 years John still was chasing Pam.

After sometime it became clear,
That those were musical sounds, I could hear.
It seemed music and marriage was a game,
From Charlotte and Elbert to Danny and Jam.

The yellow school buses came into sight,
They were driven by Jim and Eddie and Dwight.
The kids on the buses I wished them well,
'cause those guys used to drive like -- swell.

As soon as the buses left the drive,
I was returned to my world -- safe and alive.
I realized that it was only a dream,
No matter how true it really did seem.

In conclusion dear friends this was written for fun,
And everything said -- was said as a pun.
So please no violence -- don't condemn,
I enjoyed getting to write this -- Amen.

The three monkeys on the bar are our all-conference boys. They are (from left to right) Jim Biggerstaff, Don Dill, and Dennis McDonald. "Big" made it as an offensive guard, "Doc" as a defensive halfback, and "Moose" as the offensive fullback. These boys did a fine job and deserved the honor they received.

We would also like to congratulate Dennis on making fifth string all-state.

Homecoming

The activities for the Homecoming really began on Thursday and Friday nights. Thursday night there were some excellent speeches, one given by Mr. Nelson, along with the Snake Dance. There were also some good skits at the Bonfire.

Dan Sands, President of the Student Council, Crowned Jamie Griffith Homecoming Queen of 1968. Christie Wolfe, Ruth Strawhacker, and Kathie Beck were her attendants along with Dennis McDonald, Jim Biggerstaff, Don Dill, and Rich Bryant as escorts.

The M.S. Tigers defeated the Danville Bears by a score of 74 to 13. It was really a great game! The winning floats were as follows: First Place, Freshmen with "looking Into A Victory", Second Place, went to the Sophomores with 'Surrounded by Good Luck', Third Place to the Juniors, "A Grave Day", and Fourth Place to the Seniors with "Four Quarters of Good Luck."

The Homecoming Dance, sponsored by the Seniors was held in the High School lunchroom, The Echoes of Night providing the music. The Seniors sold white mums, the traditional Homecoming Flower and at midnight the dance ended a week of enthusiasm and spirited activities.

The team ran into a little tough competition this year, but pulled through at the end very well. We had a lot of underclassmen, that showed great ability for coming years for a good squad. In Sectionals, we had four Tigers pull through and they were from left, 180 lb., Dennis McDonald; 154 lb., Jim Biggerstaff; 133 lb., Ed Wright; and lone Freshman 103 lb., Nick Hobbs. The District eliminated all except Dennis McDonald who won and advanced to State where he received second place in the Final Match.
